

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair!

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

Keep the USF Fair!

The various taxes and other government fees we already pay are often in excess of the actual phone company charges. This is an absurd situation when government fees and taxes exceed become so excessive that that actually exceed the cost of the basic service.

Also, the only mode of calling long distance that is reasonable now is the prepaid long distance calling cards and this unfair proposal would even increase the cost of those. I do not want this. Please stop this unfairness.

Sincerely,

James Winemiller
